

January 20th. 2024

KOIAS International Symposium: Atmosphere in Architecture and Urban Design

On 20th January 2024, KOIAS held an international symposium entitled “Atmosphere in Architecture and Urban Design” with the following program. We are looking forward to further collaboration.

Opening Address by Ichiro NAGASAKA (Kobe Univ.)

Federico DE MATTEIS (L'Aquila Univ., Italy, via Zoom): From Density to Intensity. Urban Materialities and the Spatiality of Feelings.

Kenta MATSUI (Otemon Gakuin Univ., Japan): Atmosphere that Makes "Architecture" Appear: Three Possible Preconditions for Architectural Appreciation.

Naoko KURIYAMA (Kobe Univ.): Townscape and Neighborhood Image Formed by Community's Management Activities: A Case Study of Kobe City.

Takeshi HARAGUCHI (Kobe Univ.): Gentrification and the "Atmospheric Violence".
Toward a Critical Geography of Atmosphere.

Jürgen HASSE (Frankfurt Univ. em., Germany, via Zoom): The City as a Vitalistic Space of Density.

Closing Discussion.

